What are the most common lies told by programmers?

Atul Posted on 2016-05-04

Priyam

Going dark is when the programmer is thinking "I can't tell anybody my current status, so I'm not going to say anything until I get myself out of the jam I'm in. Then nobody will know the difference." Then they stop responding to all communication. The programmer might've been

Dashboard

Profile Page:

The profile page layout includes the following elements:

- Search Bar: A search input field with a "Search" button below it.
- File Upload Section: A box containing a "Choose File" button, the text "No file chosen", "Max File size:2MB", and an "Upload!" button. Below this is a placeholder image of a person's silhouette.
- Profile Name: The name "Krishan Gupta" is displayed in a large font.
- Status Section: A "Status" label followed by a text input field containing "Whats on your mind ?" and an "Update Status" button.
- Gallery: A section titled "Gallery" with three placeholder images.
- Post Your Journey: A section titled "Post Your Journey" located below the gallery.

The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the Start button, taskbar icons for Google Chrome, File Explorer, and Microsoft Word, and the system tray with the date and time "10:22 PM 09-May-16".
